The book, published for the exhibition and sharing its same title, presents the evolution in Anna Conway's pictorial work, from the start of her career to her latest works in 2016: this is the first monograph dedicated to the American painter.

The book presents images of the paintings created for the exhibition, together with an ample illustration of her previous works, a contribution by Mario Diacono, and an interview with the artist by American critic Bob Nickas - who has been following Conway's research for a long time.
