Conceived by Lutz & Guggisberg on the occasion of the project il giardino at the Collezione Maramotti, the book includes all the artworks on display and some others not on show, together with a rich overview of the installation.

The works, photographs incorporating elements of painting and assemblages of found objects, refer to a post-apocalyptic vision of a landscape, to a moment in which, after a disaster, Nature takes back its space. With rigorous irony Lutz & Guggisberg open up the alternate – perhaps utopian – dimension that is characteristic of any artistic process.

In the exhibition text anthropologist and geographer Matteo Meschiari, starting from Atlantis legend, reflect on destruction and creation and on the redeeming power of imagination.
