The book Ante mare et terras documents and deepens the TARWUK temporary exhibition with the same title displayed at Collezione Maramotti from October 2021 to July 2022.

The first solo exhibition in Italy by TARWUK, New York-based Croatian duo of Bruno Pogačnik Tremow and Ivana Vukšić, comprises four large-scale sculptures and a series of mixed-media on paper drawings.

Key for the project is the metamorphosis theme, which affects both the tangible and intangible, and the united and constantly evolving condition called TARWUK that represents the essence of the work. The essay by Mario Diacono and the conversation between the artists and Bob Nickas lead us through the reading of their art, characterized by experimentation, revelation, processuality, ritualism and transformation.
